

	Teruyuki Nakajima, IUGG Fellow	JAPAN
---	---------------------------------------	--------------

Currently Chief Scientist, Earth Observation Research Center (EORC), Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA); Research Professor of JAXA Institute of Space and Astronautical Science; Emeritus professor of University of Tokyo. Serving as the secretary general of International Association of Meteorology and Atmospheric Sciences (IAMAS), associate member of Science Council of Japan and others. Contributing to research for radiative transfer theory of the atmosphere and ocean, remote sensing of aerosol and cloud microphysics, and modeling study of anthropogenic aerosol effects to the earth's climate. IPCC lead authors for TAR, AR5, Special Report for Aviation and the global atmosphere, and a review editor for AR4. Awarded 2016 IAMAS IRC Gold Medal, 2017 Japan Purple Ribbon Medal, American Geophysical Union Fellow and AGU Kaufman Award etc.